- A. The internal and external purpose of the club.
- B. The governing body of the club, if applicable.
- C. The estimated number of organizing members.
- D. The method that will be used for the club to make a positive impact on the incarcerated population through membership.
- E. The method that the club will use to foster an attitude which benefits the community and how it is reflected within the club.
- F. The manner in which the club will give back to the community.
- G. The notable goals established within the club, the expectations for meeting these goals and the method that will be used to hold the club accountable to these established goals.
- H. The manner in which the club will support cultural diversity and acceptance.
- I. The way in which members will grow from participation in the club to include supporting evidence that will be relied upon for demonstrating the members will be more responsible citizens of society through participation.
- J. The manner in which the club members will be held accountable for meeting the club's goals and expectations.

The warden shall consult with the deputy director-prison operations when determining disposition of a proposal for a new incarcerated individual club. Written disposition of the proposal request shall be provided by the warden. Failure to include the above information, specific safety/security concerns and/or the inability to provide space, time, and supervision for an additional club, are legitimate reasons for denial.

If approved, the bylaws for the club shall be provided and remain on file at the facility.

Following approval of a new incarcerated individual club and receipt of the club bylaws, the warden shall request that central office accounting create a new business unit in the club trust fund and a

The club sponsor shall submit all such institutional checks to central office accounting for processing. Institutional check stubs for all deductions shall be returned to the facility business manager for distribution to the appropriate incarcerated individual. Club dues and donations are non-refundable. Club revenues from incarcerated individual dues or sales will be deducted from an incarcerated individual's facility account and held in escrow by central office accounting. A journal entry will be prepared to transfer club revenues from the incarcerated individual trust fund to the appropriate club account by the 15th of the following month.

An incarcerated individual must be an active and dues paying member to donate more than the amount of the dues to an NDCS approved club.

III. CLUB MEMBERSHIP

Approved clubs with membership open to all incarcerated individuals may receive a contribution from the facility's inmate welfare fund allocation, see Policy 113.03 Inmate Welfare Fund.

The club sponsor shall complete a Materiel Request for Purchase (DCS-A-pur-263) with a description of the goods or services to be purchased, the quantity being requested, an estimated price of the goods or services, and a suggested source. The facility business manager or designee must approve all purchases prior to placing the order. If a request is denied, the facility business manager will notify the club sponsor. Also, if the purchase is to be made via a Purchasing Card, all information should be provided to the business manager prior to the purchase. Justification for the request must be furnished along with an indication as to which club funds are to be utilized. Each request must be signed by the club sponsor as the originator.

It is recommended that each club order is originated separately to allow proper accounting of the transactions and so that documentation can be provided to the club for tracking their expenses.
